September 9th - 12th, 2012

<http://www.cinc2012.org>

The Local Organizing Committee of Computing in Cardiology 2012 wish to remind you that the abstract submission deadline is approaching very fast. It is only a matter of days until

May 1st, 2012

An abstract should be prepared electronically in plain text and optionally in pdf format according to instructions provided at http://www.cinc.org/authors_kit/abstracts

The Local Organizing Committee advise prospective authors to take the first opportunity to finish and upload their abstracts, and not wait until the last minute. Should you wish to enter the Rosanna Degani Young Investigator Award competition, proof of eligibility and a full paper require to be submitted along with the conference program abstract. We wish you an exciting time reporting on your research.

The conference fee

The early registration fee will be announced in late May. The deadline for payment will be August 1st. After this date, the fee will rise, although there are other good reasons to prepare your trip in advance: the hotel and flight booking. Be prepared for accommodation prices ranging from EUR 50 () to EUR 200 () per night. Student dormitories are available from EUR 10 per person. Please be informed that citizens of selected countries still require visas to enter Poland. Please consult the "travel information" on our website <http://cinc2012.org/> for detailed information. Should you need an official invitation to 39th meeting on Computing in Cardiology, please inform us immediately and provide a return address.

Sunday Symposium

According to the long standing tradition, the conference will begin with the Sunday Symposium. In its first part, a lecture entitled "Advances in long-term monitoring of cardiac arrhythmias" will be given by Wojciech Zareba M.D., Ph.D. (University of Rochester). In the second part, devoted to "Virtual Reality in Cardiac Surgery", three invited speakers will present the IT-backgrounds and Polish achievements in robotized cardiac surgery. It is hoped that the Symposium will be concluded by a visit to the Wieliczka Salt Mine, continuously working since 14-th century, and a reception offered in one of its underground caves. Please book your flights so that you arrive early enough to not miss these interesting events.

Social program

In keeping with the tradition of Computing in Cardiology Conferences, a social event is an essential part of the program. On Monday afternoon, the activists are invited to a teamwork-based treasure hunt, while the passivists will participate in a guided city walk and a boat tour for sightseeing of Krakow surroundings. A selection of the most frequently requested one day post-conference tours will be provided at the participants' own cost. The main excursions include: the Tatra Mountains, traditional rafting on the Pieninas gorges, and the Auschwitz-Birkenau Museum. Please consult our website for details, or contact us at cinc@agh.edu.pl to submit your enquiry.
